

Reading 44

A Core Reading Framework

North Vancouver
School District
the natural place to learn®

Reading 44: A Core Reading Framework outlines an explicit classroom reading program for all students in Kindergarten to Grade 10.

One of reading's biggest myths is that we learn to read in the primary grades, then read to learn in the intermediate grades. Reading is not so simple a process. We develop reading strategies to improve reading proficiency well into adulthood.

Document Details

The heart of the Reading 44 program lies in the "Daily Dozen," twelve reading strategies that good readers use. Instructional activities and graphic organizers are included in the document to encourage diverse learners to recognize, learn and practise these twelve strategies in order to become effective, critical readers. Instructional activities honour the 3 stages of the reading process: pre-reading (connecting), during reading (processing) and post-reading (synthesizing/transforming/extending).
