- Today, April 2nd, is Autism Acceptance Day—a day to recognize and celebrate the diversity of how people think, learn, and experience the world. Autism is part of human diversity. Some autistic students may experience the world differently—through communication, sensory sensitivities, or social interactions—but every student brings unique strengths, perspectives, and talents to our school community. At Argyle, we believe that everyone deserves to feel seen, valued, and like they belong. Today, we invite you to take one simple action: Notice someone who might be on the margins and include them. It could be as simple as saying hello, inviting someone to join you, or showing patience and kindness. Small actions can make a big difference in helping someone feel connected. Let's continue building a school where everyone feels they belong. Thank you, Argyle!
- Do you think you have what it takes to become Argyle's trivia champion? Come to Argyle's trivia night on April 8th at 4:30 and buy your tickets with your team in the multipurpose room at lunch where our trivia club members will be ready to take your $5 per person payment which includes chips, candy, and prizes if you are smart, or enthusiastic enough to win one. See you there!
- Hello Argyle! Ever thought about participating in a high school Easter Egg Hunt? Well, this year's your chance! The Argyle Easter Egg Hunt is happening today during lunch. Go around the school (in the hallways and learning communities) with your friends and try to find as many Easter eggs as you can to win a guaranteed prize. 3 golden eggs are hidden around the school for an extra big prize! Come to the cafeteria after to collect your prizes!
- Track and Field Athletes, if you are planning to compete this year and you have not given Ms. Owens your forms yet, you have until, at the absolute latest, 3 pm today to hand the forms in to Ms. Owens in room 138. This will be your final reminder: after 3 pm on today, you will no longer be able to compete this season due to submission deadlines. "
- The Digital Media Academy is now accepting new applications for next year. Besides being a program where students can excel at digital art, graphic design, the DMA is going to Japan in March of 2027. You must be a DMA student to have an opportunity to go to Japan. Talk to Mr. Miller or Mr. Bulger in rooms 135 or 134 to learn how to apply.
