Black History Month

Martin Luther King, Jr said "I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character."

As you move through the hallways at school and are out in the community, be aware of your language and actions. Don't be a bystander but transition into an advocate and speak against inappropriate language and actions.

Remember that: 'When someone disrespects you, beware the impulse to win their respect. For disrespect is a not a valuation of your worth but a signal of their character.
