2020 - ATL - Self Assessment (Core Competencies)

As part of the Ministry of Education graduation requirements, all students must complete a self-assessment of the core competencies. At Carson Graham students self-assess the Approaches to Learning Skills: Self-Management, Communication, Thinking, Social, and Research.

To qualify for graduation, students must complete one formal Self-Assessment each year of high school.

To complete this grad requirement, students are to select 3 different artifacts (sample pieces of work) they are proud of from this school year. These 3 artifacts should demonstrate your strengthens and growth over this year in the 5 ATL skills areas.

Then write one reflection for each artifact. Discuss as many ATL skills per artifact reflection that you deem appropriate. Over the three reflections, you need to discuss all 5 ATL skills. For example, you might reflect on a group project that shows your social, research and communication skills.

Students are to complete the Self-Assessment on a portfolio application called myBlueprint.

2020 Personal and Social- "Lost in Thought" Poem

Description

This year in English we read and discussed famous poems about perseverance, resilience, and emancipation. We were then asked to create our own original composition in free verse form reflecting on our own struggles and perseverance.
My poem relates to the core competency of Personal Awareness and Responsibility because it speaks to questioning one's purpose and the idea of destiny; sometimes I feel as if I am lost in my responsibilities as a student as well as many other roles. It is in times such as these that I feel somewhat insignificant compared to how well other people seem to be faring; I tend to pan out or momentarily give up in these situations. Being aware that my choices are the
